Q: How to add a whole month to a date in Javascript? What I'm trying to do is add a whole month to a date. I'm fairly new to Javascript and can't quite get my head around how to do it. I've tried adding a day of the week to the month and subtracting that from the date. And I've tried converting a date to an array, but none of it's working for me. My current code is:

function addMonth() { var date = new Date(); var month = date.getMonth(); var year = date.getYear(); var monthNumber = 1; while (month

The game kicked off at 11:45pm and it took less than a minute for United to have the first shot on target. The two sides had chances throughout the opening period with both sides pulling a number of defenders forward in search of a goal but nothing was created. Peterborough began the second period in a much more positive frame, but the Blades once again had the better of the chances.
