Elements changing their font after a set of clicks I have code which changes the font of elements (text) after a set of clicks. However, with a certain element after clicking the 2nd time, it changes font to bold style instead of the normal style. function check(){ document.getElementById("text").style.fontWeight = "bold"; document.getElementById("text").style.color = "green"; } function check1(){ document.getElementById("text").style.fontWeight = "normal"; document.getElementById("text").style.color = "white"; } What am I missing to be able to correctly change the fontWeight and color? A: You are getting the element by ID, so the CSS will apply to the element with that id. If you want 09e8f5149f

A randomised, blinded study of CPT-11 in elderly patients with advanced solid malignancies. To investigate the tolerability of the oral formulation of irinotecan (CPT-11) in elderly patients with advanced solid malignancies. Elderly patients (aged over 60 years) with advanced solid malignancies, not suitable for standard treatment, were randomised to receive CPT-11 (150 mg/m², given as a 10-min infusion) every 21 days (arm A) or to receive the same dose of CPT-11/cisplatin (DDP) (100 mg/m², given as a 10-min infusion, followed by a 2-h infusion of DDP 100 mg/m², every 21 days) (arm B). Twenty-four patients were randomised. Twenty patients received one course of treatment. Two patients completed two courses of treatment. Six patients received three courses. Four patients completed three courses. Four patients were withdrawn from the study because of treatment-related toxic effects, which were worst in arm B (8/19 patients). One patient died after one course of treatment, another patient died due to disease progression and a further patient died of intercurrent disease. The DLTs were diarrhoea (grade 2), grade 3 peripheral sensory-motor neuropathy, grade 3 gastrointestinal toxicity and grade 3 alopecia. The main adverse effects were grade 1-2 nausea and vomiting, grade 2-3 diarrhoea, grade 1-2 abdominal pain and grade 1 alopecia. More toxic effects were observed in patients with prior adjuvant treatment. CPT-11 treatment was well tolerated in elderly patients with advanced solid malignancies. The present invention relates to the general field of devices providing flow control for the conveyance of fluids. More particularly, it relates to a device allowing to set in a pipeline an obstruction to fluid flow, for example a valve for the reversal of flow or a valve for the prevention of flow. Please look at the time stamp on the story to see when it was last updated. Please enable Javascript to watch this video A seemingly obscure item I came across the other day sparked my interest and got me thinking about this subject, but never in a million years would I have thought it would have anything to do with golf, or someone famous like John Wayne. This is the actual box this "John Wayne Memorabilia" came in. I bought it at a golf shop in Lexington, and didn't even know what I bought until I read the box. Now, if you have never seen the movie, or seen it at least, there is something you should know. When he pulled this "John Wayne Memorabilia," out of his sock, he was putting, and he hit a shot that went completely off the cup, and into the treetops. That kind of reminds me of a popular story from Saturday, April 14, 2013, when President Obama was golfing. He was teeing off on his way to a fundraiser at the Philadelphia Country Club, and he got carried away. He drove his tee shot across a stream, only to come to a halt in the middle of the lot. Obama watched as the ball sat in the middle of the green, next to one of the holes, before a team of golfers came to his rescue. They took him to the 18th hole and dropped the ball off the tee. This was the first "Presidential Annoyance" in a long time. In fact, it was the first. President Ronald Reagan once drove his tee shot into a trash can in the middle of a course, but the ball was retrieved and the president rode the cart out. Nobody quite recalls the first president who caused a diplomatic crisis, but there's no question about this happening during Obama's administration. That wasn't the only time he caused a diplomatic crisis. Obama once took a group of Republican senators on a golfing excursion in Scotland. He got a little carried away, as he was teeing off, and he drove his ball into the
