If you are a player who is part of one of the competitions where 'HyperMotion Technology' is being used at an official game in the real world, you can register to become a 'HyperMotion Player' to play in FIFA 22. You can register yourself or nominate someone else who you think will improve FIFA 22 gameplay for a chance to become a HyperMotion Player. You can also become a HyperMotion Player through certain features in the game (check out our FIFA 22 Price Guide for details). All players who register can play with EA SPORTS Active and/or FIFA 20 inactive kits if the player is not a Player who will appear on an Xbox One, PlayStation 4, or PC ("Digital Player"). Players become Digital Players (and are automatically enabled to play) when registering and they remain Digital Players until they make them active through features in the game or a code is issued to them, or until they decline to become a Digital Player. The FIFA Fan Experience and the related On-Match actions are enabled when a player becomes a Digital Player. The FIFA Team Partnership Program, known as "FIFA Life on the Pitch," is a loyalty program where players register via the official FIFA website to play online and offline. It is open to all FIFA players aged 13 and older worldwide. Registering for FIFA Life includes two separate codes to receive 1,000 VGC Points and 40,000 FIFA Points. The FIFA Life subscription will grant more FIFA Points, a player's rank and selection into the "FIFA Life on the Pitch Championship". There will be a chance for people to earn more FIFA Points by completing micro-challenges, which also grants additional VGC Points. FIFA Points can be converted into VGC Points. VGC Points can then be used to enter the FIFA World Cup and FIFA Club competitions. The FIFA Ultimate Team will feature new changes and new players as previously reported and according to the FIFA website : A brand new weekly and seasonal format. Fans will now be able to enjoy in-depth gameplay from friendly matches, analysis and content from top-class journalists, and play alongside their favourite players, coaches and managers. Players can now be traded in two different ways. One way is by upgrading the Bronze and Silver kits to Gold and Silver, which will be gradually phased out over the coming weeks. In the other method, players can be acquired using the new digital marketplace. Players
