Food, fun and adventure in Auckland and the Bay of Plenty. Te Ara Tupu Aotearoa! New Zealand Wednesday, December 6, 2010 Trish's wedding cake - the groom I have made about 50 wedding cakes - now that I have been retired for a while it is time to take a step back and look at them again. This is for Trish's wedding cake - as they say - the groom! I made this for Trish's wedding last July. We had made the very large and most complicated wedding cake for her many years ago (the tall, chocolatey, four-tiered cake - see right). It was huge - but without eating it I was quite sure that was it. She had done something that I had never seen done before and so I made this - a bespoke wedding cake from triscuits. I think it turned out beautifully. The bottom tier is vanilla triscuit, with orange flavoured triscuit for the trunk, the truffles look like Christmas trees and the cherries are large glass marbles. "The cake was stinking good!" The middle tier was chocolate triscuit with a Yule log, chocolate in the middle and windows made of chocolate buttons. The log was glazed with white chocolate and covered with a web of chocolate and crushed cranberries. The log is made of layers of chocolate sponge, vanilla sponge, white chocolate sponge and then for the top and sides chocolate mousse and chocolate ganache. The top tier has chocolate triscuit, vanilla triscuit and black triscuit, a chocolate ice cream with choc chips and lime icing, chocolate and vanilla triscuit, lemon triscuit, strawberry triscuit and large lemon truffles. It was a pleasure to make and a delight for the guests who got to sample the cake at the reception - a feat I never think I could have got away with on a larger scale.
