As a matter of fact, it clearly wasn't... but a person that reoccurred in my memories (probably my father but maybe it was my mother) or someone from my family would give a really detailed testimony of the way our family life was. It was a very emotional testimony that made me cry a lot of times. I am definitely a sensitive person and having that kind of memory come back would be a very strong emotional memory. I thought that I would be able to find something about mine or my mother's childhood in my grandmother's story but I couldn't. I also wondered if it was possible that our mother's childhood memories could have been somehow recorded in her mind and she could have been talking about someone that was a part of our family's history but someone we don't know who she was talking about was called her parents or that someone from her family would have talked about me. I have no proof for this and I think that is one of the reasons I have a problem trusting my mother's memories even if they are very clear memories. I think that it is very likely b7e8fdf5c8
