yuliya0s no, they are not. the folder names are all the same and they have the same location on the disk. it is not a problem with the folder location, it is a problem with your version settings. it is working fine for us now. please let us know if that is still not working for you. we are pretty new at programming, so i am sure we have something simple wrong. thanks for all the help! - i can't remember what the folder name was, but it was not office 2019 pro plus. the folder name was office 2019 pro plus v16.0 or something like that. they are all the same, just different names to the different versions. i can check our folder locations and verify that they are all the same. it is not a problem with the folder name, it is a problem with your version settings. i am pretty sure that it is the version you are currently using. your version settings are not the same as ours, so it would not work. i am not quite sure what you mean by "it would install properly, but would not install the files." the version you are using is not the same as ours and we are all seeing the same error messages. we are using office 2019 pro plus v17.0 and you are using office 2019 pro plus v16.0. could you be more specific? fox0s i can not find an error message related to office 2019 pro plus v18.0. could you be more specific about the type of error you are getting? - i can't think of a type of error message for office 2019 pro plus v18.0 that you are getting,

i have the same problem and the same error message as you, it just does not match your description my computer is a fresh install of windows 10 enterprise. i have microsoft office 2016 installed and it is activated. now i want to have microsoft office 2019 installed. when i try to install it, i am getting the error message "this product is already installed on your computer". i have uninstalled microsoft office 2016 and this product is not installed on my computer. i need to know how to get microsoft office 2019 installed on my computer without getting the error message that it is already installed. jean-marc-couturierthank you! ps: i would like to thank you for not informing me about what seems to be a very serious problem with our server. i do not use office and the device that is supposed to be your server is operating under a different license key. i will contact the administrator of the server immediately. i would like to thank you again and hope we can quickly work together on this matter. kind regards rich7359thank you!

so i'm pretty certain there's something wrong with my local user profile on this computer. i'm wondering if though renaming the folder structure related to office on my profile while logged in as another admin type user could provide a fix. there have been occasions where i have done that on an outlook folder structure as per a kb article to fix some outlook issues on a user profile.. hmmm.
